WHAT TEXANS NEED TO KNOW ABOUT TRUMP'S ELECTION PANEL

- Kansas Secretary of State Kris Kobach, who heads the panel, sent a letter to Texas Secretary of State Rolando Pablos, requesting a wide range of information, including:
    - the full first and last names, middle names or initials if available
    - last four digits of social security number if available
    - voter history (elections voted in) from 2006 onward
    - information regarding any felony convictions
- There are no laws that force the state of Texas to comply with the panel's request.
- For now, the Texas Secretary of State has indicated that he only intends to share information that is already considered public under State law that is already public . under State law, including the full names of all registrants, addresses of most registrants, dates of birth, and voting history from 2006 onward.
- Social Security numbers are not considered public record.
- On July 10, 2017, the ACLU filed a federal lawsuit over the lack of transparency by President Trump's election commission.
- Do not remove yourself from voter registration. It is your constitutional right to vote.
- Contact Rolando Pablos and demand that he not provide ANY of the requested data:
